

Great players wanted for great teamwork

TECHNICAL CONSULTANT

OM Partners develops and implements software solutions for supply chain planning, ever since 1985. Our customers include many of the largest companies in the world. You'll discover the exciting world in which today's market leaders operate and help them to optimize their supply chain.

RESPONSIBILITIES

As a technical consultant, you work closely together with the application consultants in customer projects, but you take care of the more technical part of the job, e.g. integration issues and customized algorithms.

PROFILE

For this function a degree BAC+5 or similar is required, obtained at an engineering school or university.

Production management or logistics was part of your university education.

You combine this functional knowledge, with a large interest in the technical aspects and data analysis.

You have an excellent command of French and English. Knowledge of other languages is a plus (Spanish, German ...).

You are creative and eager to learn, and you can work autonomously.

